DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The incorporation of essential material in the specification by reference to an unpublished U.S. application, foreign application or patent, or to a publication is improper. Applicant is required to amend the disclosure to include the material incorporated by reference, if the material is relied upon to overcome any objection, rejection, or other requirement imposed by the Office. The amendment must be accompanied by a statement executed by the applicant, or a practitioner representing the applicant, stating that the material being inserted is the material previously incorporated by reference and that the amendment contains no new matter. 37 CFR 1.57(f).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-17, 21-22 and 25-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Berall (USPN 5,827,178). Berall disclose a dental medical handpiece 18 comprising a display 34 wherein the handpiece 18 is of rod-like form and has a forward end and the display has a longitudinally directed spacing from the forward end. Regarding Claim 3, handpiece 18 comprises a grip section 21 extending rearwardly of the display 34. As to Claims 4-7 and 26 Fig. 4 shows the handpiece 18 comprises a forward longitudinal region that is angled or curved to a side and the display 34 is arranged on a surface of the handpiece 18 or projects outwardly outwardly beyond the surface and extends approximately parallel to the surface of the handpiece 18. Regarding Claims 8-10 and 28, handpiece 18 comprises at least one actuating element 33 arranged in an edge region of the display 34. Further as to Claims 1, 10 and 21, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. Also to Claims 21 and 22, handpiece 18 comprises a data receiver 34 and a data transmitter 35. Regarding Claims 11, 13-16, and 29-30, handpiece 18 comprises a forward end region with an image-taking device 26, the images from which can be shown on display 34, has a camera module, and is arranged off center in an edge region of handpiece 18 in an angling or curvature plane of handpiece and in a what can be considered a material annex. As to Claim 12, it is inherent that an image-taking device has a light inlet opening to allow some level of light in, which is covered by some sort of protective cover to prevent damage. With regards to Claim 17, the handpiece 18 can be considered a functional, probe and working handpiece. Finally regarding Claim 27, display 34 projects beyond the surface of the handpiece 18 and defines with the surface, or more specifically with the power source, an open acute angle.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Berall.

Berall discloses the claimed invention except for the spacing of the display being within the claimed ranges. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to arrange the display with any reasonable spacing, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 18-20 and 31-32 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 3732
